Cubic Announces Nomination of Distinguished Aerospace and Defense Executive David F. Melcher for Board of Directors

Current chairman of the board Walt C. Zable leaving the board after 54 years of dedicated service

SAN DIEGO Jan. 19, 2018 Cubic Corporation (NYSE:CUB) today announced the nomination of seasoned aerospace and defense business executive, David F. Melcher to the company's board of directors. Melcher brings to Cubic an extensive background in program management, strategy development and finance in addition to experience working closely with key military and government leaders. Melcher will be presented for election at the company's annual shareholders meeting on January 19.

Dave will be a strong asset to our board with his exceptional leadership and industry expertise. In particular, his experience and knowledge in C4ISR from leading Exelis Inc. will be beneficial as we continue to strengthen our Cubic Mission Solutions business division, said Bradley H. Feldmann, president and chief executive officer, Cubic Corporation. Dave's accomplished corporate and military background will provide Cubic with guidance and insight to further strengthen our growth strategies and we look forward to welcoming Dave as a member of our board.

Melcher is the former president and chief executive officer of the Aerospace Industries Association (AIA), an education and advocacy organization that represents over 350 companies in the aerospace and defense industry. Prior to his role at AIA, Melcher was the president and chief executive officer of Exelis Inc. and held leadership roles at ITT Corporation. In addition to his corporate achievements, Melcher completed a distinguished 32-year career in the U.S. Army and retired as Lieutenant General.

Melcher is a registered professional engineer in New Hampshire and a former White House Fellow who served as the Executive Assistant for the Director, Office of Management and Budget in the White House. He holds a bachelor's degree in civil engineering from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and two masters' degrees from Harvard University and Shippensburg University. Melcher is a recipient of the Army's Distinguished Service Medal and received the Association of the U.S. Army John W. Dixon award for his contributions to the defense industry.

In addition, Walter C. Zable, Cubic's current chairman of the board, is leaving the board effective at the conclusion of the annual shareholders meeting, following the election of the nominees to the board. Zable departs after a 54-year career with the company, including 42 years serving on the board.

Walt has provided significant guidance to our organization during his remarkable tenure and we sincerely thank him for his many years of service, leadership and dedication," added Feldmann.
