2014 Electric Rate Case

As previously reported, Public Service Company of New Mexico (“PNM”), a wholly owned subsidiary of PNM Resources, Inc., made a filing with the New Mexico Public Regulation Commission (the “NMPRC”) in December 2014 applying for a general rate increase. On April 17, 2015, the Hearing Examiner in the case issued an Initial Recommended Decision to the NMPRC that included a recommendation that the NMPRC find PNM’s application incomplete and reject it on the grounds that it does not comply with the Future Test Year (“FTY”) Rule. On May 13, 2015, the NMPRC voted to adopt this recommendation and dismiss PNM’s rate filing.

This NMPRC action allows PNM to re-file its general rate case using calendar year 2016 as the test period. PNM plans to re-file for a general rate increase utilizing the 2016 FTY by September 1, 2015. As a result, the implementation of new rates at PNM could be delayed to the third quarter of 2016.

On May 13, 2015, the NMPRC also discussed a proposed order that was prepared based on the Hearing Examiner’s recommendation defining a FTY as a period that begins no later than 30 days following an application to increase rates. This proposed order was tabled by the NMPRC. If the NMPRC were to adopt this interpretation, PNM would likely appeal that decision to the New Mexico Supreme Court. PNM strongly disagrees with the Hearing Examiner’s FTY Rule interpretation because it would not effectively eliminate regulatory lag.

PNM had previously intended to file for its next general rate case at the end of 2016, with rates to be effective January 2018, based on a calendar year 2018 FTY. If the Hearing Examiner’s interpretation of the FTY Rule is adopted, PNM would likely have to file two general rate cases to minimize regulatory lag: the first with a test year of 2017, with rates expected to be effective January 2018 and the second with a test year of 2018, with rates expected to be effective January 2019.

The above information was based on the discussion held at the May 13, 2015 Open Meeting of the NMPRC. PNM has not yet received a final written order to dismiss the rate filing. PNM will review the final written order when received, provide an update if there are any material changes, and consider whether an appeal of the order to the New Mexico Supreme Court is appropriate. The final written order will be posted at www.pnmresources.com/investors/rates-and-filings.aspx.
