You Have Questions? Answers are coming!!

Greetings Team Members,

Part of the operating philosophy of Concentrix is Visibility – something that has been tough to live up to over the last two months since we announced the deal to acquire Convergys. With two public companies, there are rules and regulations about how we can communicate between the companies and the processes we need to go through for even emailing a large group of staff, including reporting it in public filings. This has greatly limited the normal way we like to engage our staff and do business. We also understand it can be frustrating as more information is always better.

Typically, we would like to be communicating much more about the transaction (and more frequently) than we are able to do now. We understand you have questions about how the transaction is progressing, the dates, timelines of key milestones, what things might change, what will stay the same and why some choices have been made, etc. We are establishing many communications channels that will be available to you after the close to give you real time ability to have any remaining questions answered. So be prepared to receive a ton of information as soon as we close!

Our goal had been to start to integrate the operations day one, and while some small integration work will progress, we have decided to push back the vast majority of the organizational integration until January 2019, including the official rebranding efforts to Concentrix of the Convergys business. We plan to announce a senior leadership organization prior to close that will cover Chris's direct reports starting day one as well as other key geographic regions and functions that will take effect January 1st. Between the close of the transaction and January 1st, your reporting lines in Concentrix and Convergys will remain as it is today unless otherwise communicated to you specifically by the Integration Management Office or your management. This also applies to the sales organizations, but we will be focused on enabling both sales teams to sell the new combined capabilities day one so not to lose any of the great momentum the teams have!

This gives us a few months of complete transparency with all the teams working together before January to ensure everyone is comfortable with how we are going to progress as one company.

At this time, we expect the transaction to close early October and it's critical to ensure zero disruption to clients in the seasonally high fourth quarter. Both companies need to finish the year strong with an amazing fourth quarter!

Thank you for the energy and effort you put forward every day to meet the needs and expectations of our clients and their customers. Your focus and commitment will make that happen!

We look forward to coming together soon and continuing our vision of being the greatest engagement services company in the world, rich in diversity and talent!

Shortly, we will be One Team. One Company. One Concentrix.

Sincerely,

Chris and Andre
