BARCLAYS PLC
PRE-CLOSE BRIEFING

Barclays PLC (Barclays) will be meeting analysts ahead of its close period for the half-year ending 30th June 2003.

The Group Finance Director's briefing of analysts will be available as an audio webcast by the close of business on the 3rd June 2003 at: www.investorrelations.barclays.co.uk.

Key trends set out below, unless stated otherwise, relate to the three months to 31st March 2003, and are compared to the corresponding three months of 2002. The commentary refers to the Further analysis of profit and loss account as disclosed in the 2002 Annual Report. Balance sheet comparisons, unless stated otherwise, relate to the corresponding position at 31st December 2002.

The closed life assurance activities will be reported separately within Barclays Private Clients in the 2003 Interim results.

The operating name of the credit card business acquired through the purchase of Providian UK, which completed in April 2002, is now Monument.

Matthew W. Barrett, Group Chief Executive, commented:

Although the economic and political environment has remained challenging in 2003, the Group has made a confident and disciplined start to the year and our performance in the first quarter was solid.

We continue to maintain a strong focus both on short term performance and investment in the future.

Individual Business Commentary

Personal Financial Services increased business volumes during the period, which more than offset the impact of lower average interest rates. Early signs of income momentum, combined with tight cost control and improved asset quality, are positive indicators of the ongoing transformation of this business.

Barclays Private Clients maintained a focus on managing costs aggressively to mitigate the sustained pressure on income consequent on the difficult environment in wealth management.

Barclaycard continued to perform strongly, with investment in the business remaining a key priority.

Business Banking continued its good performance with solid income growth, tight cost management and well controlled risk.

Barclays Africa had a strong start to 2003.

Barclays Capital had a confident start to 2003, sustaining the good performance in 2002. Business volumes recovered relative to the fourth quarter of 2002 with encouraging signs of the credit environment stabilising.

Barclays Global Investors had a good start to 2003 and continued, through new asset acquisition, to mitigate the impact of the further declines in global stock markets during the first quarter.

Performance Commentary

Operating profit in the three months to 31st March 2003 was maintained at a level comparable to the strong corresponding period in 2002.

Income

Operating income matched the strong levels of the corresponding period in 2002.

Net interest income was maintained at the level of the prior year period, with a good increase over the fourth quarter of 2002.

Net fees and commissions saw modest growth relative to the comparable period in 2002.

Dealing profits in the first quarter were lower than in the strong corresponding period and in line with the quarterly average for 2002. Dealing profits improved significantly relative to the fourth quarter of 2002 reflecting increased business volumes, particularly in credit related activities.

Other operating income, excluding income from the closed life assurance activities, rose strongly relative to the first quarter of 2002. Income from the closed life assurance activities fell, affected by the decline in the FTSE 100 Index.

Costs

The uncertain economic outlook necessitated continued tight management of costs, which were held flat in the first quarter of 2003 relative to the prior year period, despite the impact of additional pension costs.

Business as usual cost growth was largely attributable to the additional pensions charge and the impact of the acquisition of Monument. The increase was mitigated by the combination, during the fourth quarter of 2002, of Barclays and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in the Caribbean (First Caribbean) by which a business that had previously been consolidated became an associate.

Revenue related and strategic investment costs continued to be tightly controlled.

Barclays remains ahead of plan to achieve the targeted cost savings of £1 billion for the four year period ending 2003.

Provisions for bad and doubtful debts

Total provisions for the Group during the period were in line with the comparable period in 2002.

Provisions were lower in the period in Personal Financial Services and higher, although in line with expectation, in Barclaycard and Business Banking.

Barclays Capital observed encouraging signs during the first quarter of 2003 that the credit environment was stabilising. Barclays Capital provisions were significantly below the 2002 quarterly average although higher relative to the prior year period.

APPENDIX

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION ON BUSINESS PERFORMANCE

Additional detail to the Performance Commentary for income and costs is provided below.

Income

Operating income: Operating income matched the strong levels of the corresponding period in 2002.

The income environment in Barclays Private Clients remained difficult as client sentiment was affected by further declines in the FTSE 100 Index which fell by 8% or 330 points during the quarter (and by 32% or 1,660 points relative to the end of the first quarter of 2002). Barclays Capital secondary income, comprising net interest income and dealing profits, was lower than that generated by the strong performance of the first quarter of 2002, but improved significantly relative to the fourth quarter of 2002.

Net interest income: In Personal Financial Services, net interest income rose modestly on the corresponding period in 2002, and showed a marked upturn relative to the fourth quarter of 2002 reflecting the effects of balance recruitment during 2002. Customer assets maintained satisfactory progress, growing relative to the levels at the end of 2002. Ongoing selectivity in mortgages resulted in an increase in margins, and a market share of net new lending consistent with that of the fourth quarter of 2002. Customer liabilities maintained good growth, consequent on the continued success of Barclays branded savings, particularly in Openplan.

Net interest income at Barclays Private Clients fell versus the comparable period in 2002, largely reflecting the FirstCaribbean transaction. Barclaycard saw strong growth relative to the first quarter of 2002 although this partly reflected the inclusion of Monument. Extended credit balances at Barclaycard International grew strongly.

Business Banking net interest income was maintained at the level of the comparable period in 2002, with the benefit of loan and deposit volume growth being offset by the impact of lower deposit margins. Barclays Africa achieved good growth in net interest income. Barclays Capital net interest income was higher than the strong first quarter in 2002.

Net interest margins: In Personal Financial Services, net interest margins in the first quarter of 2003 strengthened versus the second half of 2002 although they were generally lower than in the prior year period. The consumer lending margin strengthened in the period but the savings margin was lower. Barclaycard business margins were broadly stable relative to the comparable period.

Business Banking lending margins were stable in the first quarter. Deposit margins weakened slightly.

Net fees and commissions: In Personal Financial Services, fees and commissions were broadly flat reflecting good growth in insurance income and improved income from fee based value added current accounts, offset by lower income from independent financial advice. Barclays Private Clients fees and commissions fell sharply, but stabilised relative to the fourth quarter of 2002.

Barclaycard experienced good fees and commissions growth. This was partly due to the impact of the acquisition of Monument, but it also reflected higher merchant transaction volumes and the continued expansion of Barclaycard International.

Business Banking achieved good growth in fees and commissions relative to the comparable period in 2002, benefiting from stronger lending related fees. Barclays Capital primary income, principally fees and commissions, achieved good growth in the period.

Barclays Global Investors fees and commissions grew reflecting strong new business volumes, moderated by currency effects and the significantly lower quarter on quarter average index levels. Assets under management at 31st March 2003 were £480 billion (31st December 2002: £462 billion).

Table of Contents

Income from the closed life assurance activities will be disclosed separately within Barclays Private Clients in the 2003 Interim results. Income from the closed life assurance activities fell, affected by the decline in the FTSE 100 Index.

Costs

Personal Financial Services and Business Banking are the two businesses most impacted by the move to a pensions charge in 2003 from a pensions credit in 2002 and earlier years. Both businesses, excluding the pensions impact, continued to demonstrate stringent cost control.

Barclays Private Clients total costs fell, in part reflecting the effects of the reconfiguration of the Caribbean business which were partially offset by the impact of the Charles Schwab Europe acquisition. Costs remained tightly controlled based on action taken by management in response to the hostility of the environment during the quarter. This fully mitigated the impact of the pension charge.

Growth in costs in Barclaycard reflected the impact of ongoing investment in this business, in particular the acquisition of Monument and increased marketing spend.

Costs in Barclays Capital and in Barclays Global Investors continued to be tightly managed.
