Sony Corporate Strategy Meeting FY2013

Implementation of Consistent Corporate Strategy and Acceleration of Transformation Initiatives to Enhance Overall Sony Group's Corporate Value

Tokyo, May 22, 2013 – Sony Corporation (“Sony” or “the Company”) has been accelerating initiatives to revitalize and grow its electronics business based on the corporate strategy announced on April 12, 2012, while further growing the Entertainment and Financial Services businesses that have been contributing stable profit, in order to enhance the entire Sony Group's ability to heighten corporate value.

Following the appointment of the current management team in April 2012, the Company implemented a series of measures focused on rapidly transforming Sony. Achievements resulting from these measures during the fiscal year ending March 31, 2013 (“FY12”) include the following:

Sony Group Key Achievements in FY12

- Continued growth of sales and profit in the Entertainment and Financial Services businesses
- Strategic investment and foundation-building for new business creation and strengthening core electronics businesses
- Enhancement of financial foundations and management structure through business portfolio realignment, asset sales and structural reform
- Significant improvement in TV business on path to profitability
- Reinforced Sony's sales and marketing operations in emerging markets
- High value-added products developed and launched in core electronics businesses

As a result of these achievements, the Company was able to accomplish its target set at the beginning of FY12 of returning net income attributable to Sony's stockholders to profit. The target of returning the electronics business to profit remains an ongoing challenge that Sony will continue to address in the fiscal year ended March 31, 2014 (“FY13”).

In FY13, within the electronics business, Sony is continuing to implement the five key initiatives announced in April 2012, and taking into account changes in the business environment, is updating its strategies for the three core electronics businesses. In the entertainment and financial services businesses, Sony will seek to further strengthen profitability. In addition, the Company is continuing to strengthen the overall financial foundations of the Sony Group.

Sony Group FY13 Key Strategies

1. Reinforce the Electronics Business

Edgar Filing: SONY CORP - Form 6-K

- 1 Accelerate execution of updated strategies in the three core businesses (Mobile, Imaging and Game)
  - 1 Return the TV business to profitability

- 1 Accelerate the execution of growth strategies in emerging markets that leverage the overall strength of the Sony Group
- 1 Reinforce new businesses (such as Medical and Security) to deliver sustained growth
- 1 Further realign Sony's business portfolio
2. Further strengthen profitability in the Entertainment and Financial Services businesses
3. Continue to reinforce Sony's financial foundations

Specific measures to accelerate the execution of updated strategies in the three core electronics businesses and the TV business' return to profit are as follows.

Mobile Business

In the smartphone and tablet businesses, where continued market growth is anticipated, Sony will aim to achieve further business growth while also enhancing profitability. The Company also intends to accelerate the speed with which it develops and rapidly delivers compelling products to customers that incorporate the best of Sony's technologies, and to further elevate the mobile "Watch," "Listen" and "Create" experiences. The Company also aims to execute the timely launch of new and highly competitive products that build on the success of Xperia™ Z, which has been enthusiastically received across markets worldwide. By further strengthening relations with major operators globally and expanding sales channels, Sony is seeking to secure a leading position in each of its focus markets around the globe. As a result of these measures, Sony aims to achieve sales of 1.5 trillion yen and operating income margin of 4% in its mobile business, comprising smartphones and tablets, by the fiscal year ending March 31, 2015 ("FY14"). Regarding PCs, in view of the changes the market and business environment have undergone in the past year, the Company is implementing a strategic realignment that initially prioritizes profitability improvement over sales expansion with the aim of returning the business to profit in FY13.

Imaging Businesses

Placing image sensors, a particularly strong category for Sony, at its core, Sony is concentrating the focus of its imaging businesses on creating value-added products, while aggressively exploring new applications for its imaging technologies in both the consumer and professional markets. In terms of image sensors, the Company will continue to commercialize new sensor technologies capable of differentiating finished products, for use in a range of consumer and professional applications. The Company also plans to engage in aggressive capital investment in order to meet the robust demand for these components. At the same time, Sony is also developing technologies that further expand the range of sensor applications, including sensors capable of sensing beyond the visible light spectrum, and sensors capable of detecting and categorizing different types of information. For the professional market, Sony will continue to reinforce its professional camera lineup centering on 4K-compatible cameras, as well as cameras for cinematography. The Company will also target further business growth by extending the scope of its digital imaging technologies to new business areas such as security, sports and medical, and will reallocate resources accordingly. In the consumer market, where business conditions continue to shift rapidly, Sony aims to expand sales of value-added compact digital still cameras by introducing models that leverage Sony's image sensor technologies to further enhance image quality, and also incorporate feature enhancements such as reduced size and weight, and higher-powered zoom. Sony will also seek to firmly maintain its number one global market share in the growing mirrorless lens camera category. Through these measures, Sony will target sales of 1.3 trillion yen and an operating profit margin of more than 10% across the image sensor, professional, and consumer categories by FY14.

Game Business

“PlayStation 3” continues to deliver stable hardware and software sales, and Sony will continue to reinforce the business’ position as a stable source of profit. In particular, the Company will seek to grow sales of content and services through PlayStation Store and contribute to profit. For “PlayStation Vita” (“PS Vita”), the Company will aim to secure further sales and profit through various hardware sales initiatives and the introduction of compelling software titles. The next generation platform, “PlayStation 4” (“PS4”) will launch this year-end holiday season. PS4 will deliver a quality gaming experience only possible through a dedicated gaming system, and will also enable smartphone and tablet users to share in the enjoyment of PS4, even without owning one themselves. Furthermore, customers who own both PS4 and PS Vita will be able to experience new services and game entertainment. Sales of digital downloads are increasing rapidly as the delivery of game content transitions from disc media to sales over the network. The Company is also working towards streaming PlayStation games by leveraging the cloud technologies of Gaikai Inc., acquired last year. This would enable the PlayStation experience to be enjoyed across a wide range of products, providing significant opportunities for further business expansion. As a result of these measures, Sony will target sales of 1 trillion yen and operating income margin of 2% in the game business in FY14. Going forward, Sony aims to significantly expand its business model around PS4, to transition the business to further growth in the fiscal year ending March 31, 2016 (“FY15”) and beyond.

The mobile, imaging and game businesses will continue to be the core businesses that drive Sony’s electronics business growth. Sony is projecting that approximately 65% of total sales and approximately 80% of operating income for the entire electronics business will be generated by these three businesses by FY14.

TV Business

Within the TV business, Sony is continuing to enhance product strength in order to increase sales and product value. By incorporating unique, Sony-developed features such as the “X-Reality PRO” image processing engine and “Triluminos Display” wide color displays, Sony will continue to enhance the image and audio quality of its Full HD TV models, while also expanding its 4K LCD TV lineup. In addition, in emerging markets where continued growth is expected, Sony will launch models tailored to meet local needs in order to increase sales volumes, while also continuing to reduce fixed and operational costs in order to return the business to profit in FY13.

Sony will execute the initiatives outlined above, together with its existing strategy of expanding business in emerging markets, creating new businesses and accelerating innovation, as well as realigning the business portfolio.

In the Entertainment businesses, the Pictures segment is aiming to focus on the production of motion picture titles with high profit potential, including globally popular franchises, and will seek to further develop its television production and television network businesses, which are areas where continued growth is anticipated, as stable sources of profit. In the television network business, the Company will target further business expansion in rapidly growing markets such as India. In the Music segment, the Company aims to increase market share by unearthing and nurturing exciting new talent, and also exploring various growth opportunities such as leveraging its music content for use across increasingly popular online music service platforms, in order to achieve further business growth. In the music publishing business, which manages music publishing rights, Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC began administering EMI Music Publishing’s world-class global music catalog, starting in June of 2012. The Company plans to solidify its position as the top player in the industry through efficient management and strong creative decisions.

The Financial Services business will continue striving to deliver highly dependable services in order to maintain its high customer satisfaction ratings, and by doing so will seek to achieve steady profit growth.

As a result of these measures, by FY14 Sony aims to achieve the financial targets announced on April 12, 2012, which are sales of 8.5 trillion yen, operating income margin of more than 5%, and return on equity ("ROE") of 10% for the Sony Group overall, and sales of 6 trillion yen and operating income margin of 5% in its electronics business.

Sony will continue to implement rapid decision-making processes based on a unified "One Sony" approach that encompasses its electronics, entertainment and financial services businesses, so that it can continue to provide a range of products, services and content that inspires and fulfills curiosity, and delivers exciting experiences to customers around the world.

<For reference> Overview of Sony Corporate Strategy announced on April 12, 2012

By implementing a rapid decision-making approach that draws on the strengths of the entire Sony Group as "One Sony", Sony aims to revitalize and grow the electronics business to generate new value, while further growing the Entertainment and Financial Services businesses that have been contributing stable profit.
