Marcus Agius appointed to succeed Matt Barrett as Chairman

Barclays PLC ("Barclays") and Barclays Bank PLC ("Barclays") announce the following changes to their Boards.

Matthew W Barrett (62) is to retire as Chairman on 31st December 2006. Mr Barrett will be succeeded by Marcus Agius (60), who is appointed a non-executive Director of Barclays with effect from 1st September 2006.

Marcus Agius is currently a Deputy Chairman of Lazard LLC and Chairman of Lazard London. He has been Chairman of BAA plc since 2002. With effect from 1st January 2007, when he becomes Chairman of Barclays, he will relinquish all responsibilities at Lazard.

Commenting, Matt Barrett says:

"It has been a great privilege to serve Barclays over the past seven years. It has been fulfilling to lead the transformation of the business and the transition to a powerful new management team under John Varley. The performance of the Group is the best in its history and, with the transition to the new management team successfully completed, I am delighted to hand over the Chairman's reins to Marcus Agius who brings great experience, knowledge and independence to the role."

Commenting, John Varley, Group Chief Executive, says:

"Matt has been an inspirational leader at Barclays over the past seven years. He set a clear strategy for the business and leaves the Group at a time of considerable strength and record profitability. His Barclays colleagues will miss him greatly. I am delighted that we have found a proven and strong successor in Marcus Agius and I look forward to working with him."

Commenting, Sir Nigel Rudd, Deputy Chairman, says:

"Having led the process to appoint a successor to Matt, I am delighted that Marcus Agius has accepted the Board's invitation to become Chairman of Barclays. He will bring enormous experience to the role. The Board owes a large debt of gratitude to Matt for his contribution firstly as Group Chief Executive then as Chairman, and we wish him well in his retirement."

Commenting, Marcus Agius says:

"I am very pleased at the prospect of becoming Chairman of Barclays; it is a great company with a distinctive portfolio of businesses and a strong brand. It is well positioned to take advantage of the opportunities arising in the financial services sector."
