Press Release

CNH and KAMAZ: Agreement for Joint Venture partnership in Russia

The two companies are planning to invest to locally produce and distribute CNH agricultural and construction equipment in the Russian market

Moscow, Russia - (October 8, 2009) CNH, a world leader in the agricultural and construction equipment businesses, part of the Fiat Group, and KAMAZ JSC, a leading global heavy truck manufacturer, are developing an industrial and commercial alliance to further strengthen CNH's leading position in Russia's agricultural and construction equipment sectors.

The alliance, framed as a Heads of Agreement, has been signed in the presence of Mr. Vladimir Putin, Prime Minister of the Russian Federation and Mr. Sergey Chemezov, General Director of Rostekhnologii; Mr. Sergej Kogogin, General Director of KAMAZ and Mr. Sergio Marchionne, CEO of Fiat Group; Mr. Franco Fusignani, Head of CNH International; Mr. Alessandro Nasi, Vice President of CNH Business Development. Definitive agreements are to be completed by the parties in the coming months.

Under the deal, the two companies would set up an industrial joint venture aimed at initially localizing the production of CNH's brands combines, tractors, implements and specific construction equipment models. Manufacturing operations will be located in Naberezhnye Chelny, Tatarstan, the historical headquarters of KAMAZ, and are planned to commence in 2010. This operation will also serve as the manufacturing base for the local assembly of products in addition to those mentioned above.

Furthermore, according to the definitive agreement, CNH and KAMAZ will integrate their networks in order to distribute in the Russian Federation both localized and imported agricultural and construction equipment belonging to CNH's brands' full line of product ranges. The commercial joint venture will benefit from KAMAZ's dealer network in Russia and from CNH's strong product, brand recognition and distribution presence in the Russian market, leveraging its global resources and organization.

The partnership will lead to increased employment opportunities and will enhance the mechanization of the agriculture and construction sectors in Russia leveraging on some of the most technologically advanced machines in this business.

CNH and KAMAZ are working in close collaboration with the Russian Ministries for Agriculture and Industry and Trade in order to assure the most appropriate framework in which to develop this industrial and commercial alliance.

This agreement is a strong sign of our long term commitment to Russia. To these joint ventures, CNH would bring technological know-how, an existing distribution network, retail finance and leasing solutions and access to an extensive supply base and relevant economies of scale. CNH has a strong presence in the Russian market that is supported by our recognized leading brands and their wide-ranging product lines, said Sergio Marchionne, CEO Fiat S.p.A. and Chairman of the Board, CNH Global N.V.

KAMAZ extensively develops partnerships with leading world manufacturers of automotive and agricultural machinery. This will allow us to use the most advanced manufacturing sciences and provide Russian buyers with cutting edge machines said Sergey Chemezov, General Director of Rostekhnologii
