September 27, 2010

We are Spreading Low Fares Farther

Southwest Airlines has entered into a definitive agreement to acquire AirTran Holdings, Inc., a parent company of AirTran Airways (AirTran). SWALife will have all the details, until then, here are a few quick facts for our Employees about this exciting announcement:

The acquisition of AirTran presents for us a unique opportunity to grow our Company and take a significant step toward achieving our strategic goals over the next decade.

If approved, this transaction would create more jobs and career opportunities for our combined Employee groups as a whole. Southwest remains committed to job security.

The agreement still faces various reviews that could take several months to complete prior to any approval being given, so nothing changes right now for Employees and Customers. Until the deal closes, Southwest and AirTran will continue to operate independently.

Based on current operations, the combined organization would have nearly 43,000 Employees and serve more than 100 million Customers annually from more than 100 destinations in the U.S. and near-international destinations.

In addition, the combined carriers' all-Boeing fleet consisting of 685 active aircraft would include 401 Boeing 737-700s, 173 Boeing 737-300s, 25 Boeing 737-500s, and 86 Boeing 717s. We are still evaluating the opportunity for the 737-800.

If Customers ask you questions about this announcement, you can use the following speaking points to help answer them:

Our dedication to the highest quality of Customer Service remains our key mission. At this time, there are no changes to your Customer experience on either Southwest or AirTran. Please continue to book and travel just as you do today.

If approved, the acquisition will give us a broader national presence allowing us to offer low fares and exceptional service in markets that will benefit from increased competition.

Although approval of the deal depends on the completion of certain approvals that could take several months, we're all very excited about what it can mean for our Employees, our Customers, the Communities we serve, and our Shareholders.

It offers Customers more low-fare destinations as we extend our network and diversify into new markets, including significant opportunities to and from Atlanta, while also expanding our presence in key markets.

Also, it presents the opportunity to extend our service to many smaller domestic cities that we don't serve today, and provide access to key near-international leisure markets in the Caribbean and Mexico.

We are still very early in the process of determining the specific destinations we will serve moving forward. We will certainly keep our Customers updated as AirTran cities transition into the Southwest network.

No changes to airline reward programs or flight service will happen at this time.

A special website www.lowfaresfarther.com has been launched where you'll find our news release and more information on how this agreement may impact Customers, Employees, Shareholders, and Communities.
