Item 1.01. Entry into a Material Definitive Agreement

On July 16, 2010, Motorola, Inc., a Delaware corporation (the Company), entered into a Master Acquisition Agreement (the Acquisition Agreement) with Nokia Siemens Networks B.V., a Dutch company (the Purchaser). Pursuant to the terms of the Acquisition Agreement, the Company has agreed to sell to the Purchaser certain assets and liabilities of the Company s business of designing, developing, manufacturing, purchasing, selling, integrating, installing and servicing end-to-end cellular networks for public network operators (the Business).

The assets of the Company and certain of its affiliates (collectively, the Seller Group) to be sold to the Purchaser and certain of its affiliates (collectively, the Purchaser Group) under the Acquisition Agreement include real and personal property, contract rights, inventory, certain intellectual property, certain accounts receivable and certain other assets that are used in or relate to the Business, all as further specified in the Acquisition Agreement. As consideration for the purchase of the assets, the Purchaser has agreed to pay $1.2 billion in cash to the Company on the closing date of the transaction. Certain assets of the Seller Group used in or relating to the Business will be excluded from the transaction and retained by the Seller Group, including $150 million of accounts receivable, cash, certain customer financing notes, the Company s iDEN infrastructure business, substantially all the patents related to the Company s wireless network infrastructure business, and other assets as specified in the Acquisition Agreement.

The Purchaser has also agreed to assume liabilities specified in the Acquisition Agreement. The liabilities of the Seller Group to be assumed include accounts payable, contract liabilities, warranty claims, employee-related liabilities and other liabilities of the Seller Group that relate to the acquired assets or the Business and are specified in the Acquisition Agreement. Certain liabilities of the Seller Group will be retained by the Seller Group as specified in the Acquisition Agreement. The transaction is subject to a post-closing adjustment based on the amount of Net Assets (as defined in the Acquisition Agreement) on the closing date in accordance with the terms of the Acquisition Agreement.

The Acquisition Agreement contains customary representations and warranties, covenants and indemnification obligations of the parties thereto as set forth therein. In addition, the Company agrees that it will not, and will not cause or permit its affiliates to, compete with the Business (subject to certain exceptions) for a period of two years after the closing date, under the terms specified in the Acquisition Agreement.

The consummation of the transaction is subject to customary closing conditions, and the Acquisition Agreement contains certain termination rights, including the right of either party to terminate the Acquisition Agreement if the closing has not occurred on or before April 30, 2011.
