METHANEX SIGNS LONG-TERM GAS SUPPLY AGREEMENT AND ANNOUNCES THE PLANNED RESTART OF A SECOND PLANT IN NEW ZEALAND

Methanex Corporation announced today plans to restart the second methanol plant at its Motunui site in New Zealand. The plant is expected to commence production in mid-2012 and will add up to 650,000 tonnes of incremental capacity per year. Methanex has signed a 10-year agreement with New Zealand-based Todd Energy to supply natural gas for up to half of the 1.5 million tonnes of annual capacity at the Motunui site. The plant has been idle since 2004 and the estimated future capital cost to restart is US$60 million.

Bruce Aitken, President and CEO of Methanex commented, "Based on the improved natural gas supply position that has developed in New Zealand over the past several years, we are delighted to announce the restart of a second plant in New Zealand. Furthermore, we are very pleased to have entered into a long-term gas supply agreement with Todd Energy, a leading oil and gas producer in New Zealand. This agreement underpins higher production and provides for a long-term gas supply to our operations in New Zealand.

Mr. Aitken continued, "The quantity of gas supply under this contract potentially allows us to produce about 7.5 million tonnes of methanol over the next 10 years, representing multi-billion dollars of revenues. The incremental capacity in New Zealand is an important new supply source for our customers in an environment where little new capacity is being added to the industry. And, based on the modest capital expenditure required to restart the plant, this project is expected to create significant value for shareholders.

Methanex is a Vancouver-based, publicly traded company and is the world's largest supplier of methanol to major international markets. Methanex shares are listed for trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange in Canada under the trading symbol MX; on the NASDAQ Global Market in the United States under the trading symbol MEOH; and on the Foreign Securities Market of the Santiago Stock Exchange in Chile under the trading symbol Methanex. Todd Energy, a subsidiary of Todd Corporation, is a privately held Wellington-based diversified energy company. Todd Energy is New Zealand's largest domestically owned petroleum exploration and production company and has been a leading New Zealand oil and gas explorer for over 50 years.
