Valuation of YLQ Co-generation

CCAFM, an independent asset appraisal institution which is qualified to participate in securities related matters, has conducted a valuation on YLQ Co-generation by using replacement cost method. The appraisal date is fixed on 31 December 2008 and the results are set out below:

	(RMB'000)
Book value of shareholders' equity	1,585,455
Appraised value of shareholders' equity	1,918,142
Increase/Decrease (amount)	332,687
Increase/Decrease (%)	21%

Reasons for appreciation in value under the valuation report: The appreciation in value for YLQ Co-generation was RMB332.687 million, representing an appreciation in the appraised value for the fixed assets and land use rights and an impairment in the assessment of its liabilities. Of which, the appraised value for land use rights as compared to its net book value appreciated by an amount of RMB241.77 million. The appreciation in the appraised value for land use rights was mainly due to the fact that YLQ Co-generation obtained the relevant lands relatively earlier in time, the area of the lands it occupied was relatively larger as well as the appreciation in value of the land use rights in recent years. The appraised value of the fixed assets was RMB82.17 million. The reasons attributable to the appreciation were due to the fact that the construction of Phase III of YLQ Co-generation was completed as early as in 1999 and have been in use for nearly 10 years as at the date of assessment. The key generating facilities, although their net book value is low as a result of depreciation, are still under normal operation. It thus causes an appreciation in valuation. The impairment in assessment of the non-current liabilities in an amount of RMB9.69 million was caused by the government subsidy obtained but not yet verified in the liabilities item of YLQ Co-generation.

(2) Beijing Co-generation

Beijing Co-generation is situated in Beijing. It was formerly Beijing Branch of HIPDC, which was incorporated on 21 January 1991. In November 2003, Beijing Branch of HIPDC was re-structured into a sino-foreign joint stock limited company as Beijing Co-generation, the principal businesses of which include construction and operation of power plants and the ancillary projects including fund raising both within and/or outside China; import of complete or ancillary sets of equipments, machinery tools; and provision of three materials (steel, cement and wood), fuel and other material for construction and operation of power plants.

Currently, Beijing Co-generation has five coal-fired co-generation units with an aggregate generation capacity of 845,000 KW. Of these, two generation units having the generation capacity of 165,000 KW commenced operation in January 1998, and two generation units having the generation capacity of 220,000 KW commenced operation in December 1998 and June 1999, respectively. The other generation unit having a generation capacity of 75,000 KW commenced operation in April 2004.

HIPDC is the major shareholder of Beijing Co-generation, holding a 41% interest in the registered capital of Beijing Co-generation. The investment made by HIPDC in the Beijing Co-generation Interest amounted to RMB 656 million. Other shareholders of Beijing Co-generation are Beijing Jingneng International Energy Limited Company and China Hua Neng Group Hong Kong Limited, holding 34% and 25% interest in the registered capital of Beijing Co-generation, respectively.

Upon Closing, the Company will hold a 41% interest in the registered capital of Beijing Co-generation while each of Beijing Jingneng International Energy Limited Company and China Hua Neng Group Hong Kong Limited will continue to hold 34% and 25% interest in Beijing Co-generation, respectively. China Hua Neng Group Hong Kong Limited is wholly owned by Huaneng Group (i.e. controlling shareholder of HIPDC). Pursuant to the arrangement made between the Company and China Hua Neng Hong Kong Limited on 21 April 2009, China Hua Neng Group Hong Kong Limited agreed to entrust the Company to, free of payment, exercise the voting right of its 25% interest in Beijing Co-generation upon closing for so long as the Company remains the largest shareholder of Beijing Co-generation. Therefore, upon completion, Beijing Co-generation will be regarded as a subsidiary of the Company and its financial results will be consolidated into the Company's financial statements.

Beijing Jingneng International Energy Limited Company does not hold shares in the Company and is also a third party independent of the Company and connected persons of the Company.

Valuation of Beijing Co-generation

CCAFM has conducted a valuation on Beijing Co-generation by using replacement cost method. The appraisal date is fixed on 31 December 2008 and the results are set out below:

	(RMB'000)
Book value of shareholders' equity	2,027,201
Appraised value of shareholders' equity	3,042,276
Increase/Decrease (amount)	1,015,075
Increase/Decrease (%)	50%

Reasons for appreciation in value under valuation report: the appreciation in value for Beijing Co-generation was RMB1,015.075 million, representing an appreciation mainly in the appraised value for the fixed assets and land use rights. Of which, the appreciation in the appraised value for land use rights amounted to RMB821.170 million. The appreciation in the appraised value for land use rights was mainly due to the fact that Beijing Co-generation obtained the relevant lands relatively earlier in time, the area of the lands it occupied was relatively larger as well as the appreciation in value of the land use rights in recent years. The appraised value of the fixed assets was RMB213.85 million. As Phase I of Beijing Co-generation commenced operation during the period from 1998 and 1999, its key generating facilities which are still under normal operation, are now only of low net value as a result of depreciation, thus causing an appreciation in the appraised value.

Reasons for the Acquisitions, Pricing Factors and Impact

The Acquisitions reflect the Company's continued implementation of its development strategy which focuses on both greenfield development and acquisition. Upon completion, the Acquisitions will enlarge the Company's operating scale and geographical scope, thus enhancing the profitability of the Company as well as consolidating the Company's position as one of the largest independent power companies. In order to cope with the challenges of global financial crisis currently encountered nationwide by maintaining steady and relatively rapid economic growth, increasing market share by way of acquisition of power assets will be instrumental in enhancing the Company's competitive strengths and increasing shareholders' value. The Acquisitions will lead the Company to enter into the power markets of Beijing and Tianjin and help to strengthen the Company's leading position in the economic region around Baohai, an area with rapid economic growth and strong power demand. Beijing Co-generation is located in Beijing and has an aggregate generation capacity of 845 MW. As it has the most advanced and equipped environmental protection system, it then has stronger competitive strength and better social image. YLQ Co-generation is located in Tianjin and has an aggregate generation capacity of 1,200 MW. It has geographical competitive strength and is providing thermal power to a large area in Tianjin.

Upon completion of the Acquisitions, the Company's total generation capacity on an equity basis will increase by 1,006.45 MW, from 39,203 MW as at 31 March 2009 to 40,209.45 MW. For 2008, the profit after tax of YLQ Co-generation amounted to RMB16.6268 million, of which the YLQ Co-generation Interest attributable to Huaneng Group accounted for RMB9.1448 million. For 2008, the profit after tax of Beijing Co-generation amounted to RMB315.032 million, of which the Beijing Co-generation Interest attributable to HIPDC accounted for RMB129.1631 million.

The Acquisitions have no material impact on the assets, liabilities and revenue of the Company.

The consideration of the Acquisitions was arrived at after various negotiations among the parties, and has already taken into account the market environment, operating conditions, and profitability of YLQ Co-generation and Beijing Co-generation, particularly, the asset valuation report prepared by CCAFm.

According to the audited financial statements of YLQ Co-generation and Beijing Co-generation, the book value of the net asset of YLQ Co-generation Interest held by Huaneng Group as at 31 December 2008 amounted to RMB872 million while the book value of the net asset of Beijing Co-generation Interest held by HIPDC as at 31 December 2008 amounted to RMB831.15 million. Therefore, the aggregate corresponding book value of the net asset of such two interests amounted to RMB 1,703.15 million. According to the asset valuation report prepared by CCAFm, the value of the YLQ Co-generation Interest held by Huaneng Group amounted to RMB1,054.98 million and the value of the Beijing Co-generation Interest held by HIPDC amounted to RMB1,247.33 million. As such, the aggregate of the corresponding appraised value of such two interests amounted to RMB2,302.31 million, that forms the principal basis in determining the total consideration of the Acquisitions.

The total consideration of the Acquisitions represents a premium of 37.86% over the aggregate corresponding book value of the net asset of YLQ Co-generation Interest and Beijing Co-generation Interest, and a premium of 2% over the aggregate corresponding appraised value of such two interests. The book value of the net asset reflects the historical cost and the accumulated depreciation of YLQ Co-generation and Beijing Co-generation while the appraised value demonstrates the replacement cost of YLQ Co-generation and Beijing Co-generation as at the appraisal date (i.e. 31 December 2008). The pricing level of the Acquisitions has reflected the value that YLQ Co-generation and Beijing Co-generation may create in operation, which differ from the book value of the net asset and the appraised value of such two interests.

The Directors believe that the acquisition prices and terms are fair and reasonable to the Company and its shareholders as a whole. The acquisitions of YLQ Co-generation Interest and Beijing Co-generation Interest are beneficial to the Company and its shareholders.
