Dear Fellow Stockholder:

On April 25th, we will hold Roma Financial Corporation's first Annual Meeting of Stockholders. The meeting date coincides with the scheduled payment date of the initial dividend of $0.06 per share declared by the Board of Directors on April 5th to holders of record on April 18th.

We previously mailed to you our 2006 Annual Report to Stockholders, together with information about the Annual Meeting and a WHITE proxy card. If you have not already done so, we urge you to vote and return the WHITE proxy card.

Approximately one week after we mailed these materials, we became aware of a plan by one of our stockholders, Mr. Joseph Stilwell, who is a recognized activist investor, to wage a campaign against our nominees for the Board of Directors. You may have received materials in the mail from Mr. Stilwell. Initially, we did not want management's attention diverted or incur unnecessary expenses by responding. However, following a letter filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) by Mr. Stilwell dated April 9th, containing inaccurate, misleading and personally denigrating comments, we feel obliged to comment.

In his letter, Mr. Stilwell asserts that action implementing a dividend policy was in response to his filing to hold a proxy contest. In fact, steps were under way to lay the foundation for the declaration of an initial dividend well before Mr. Stilwell's proxy filing and letter. In order to avoid a double taxation of dividends at the mutual holding company level, the Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) must consent to a waiver of receipt of dividends by the mutual holding company before formal action to declare a dividend to public stockholders can occur. In fact, the Company submitted a waiver request letter on March 19th, more than a week before Mr. Stilwell filed his preliminary proxy statement with the SEC in which he alleged "the Company failed to implement a capital allocation plan".

In our previous conversations with Mr. Stilwell, we informed him the Board of Directors would judiciously evaluate any and all prudent capital deployment plans. We did not, and could not, discuss particulars with him because it is not permissible to share such confidential information solely with an individual stockholder.

Indeed, after our first meeting, Mr. Stilwell sought to become privy to otherwise non-public information and plans of the Company and asked management to consider entering into a "confidentiality agreement" with him to provide him confidential, non-public information.

We do not believe it is proper to provide an individual stockholder information not otherwise available to public stockholders and depositor members of the Mutual Holding Company, notwithstanding an agreement to hold such information in confidence. Additionally, we were advised by Counsel that providing confidential non-public information to Mr. Stilwell would be contrary to public stockholder interests and SEC and OTS regulations.

Management and the Board have begun and will continue to implement plans to deploy the capital raised in the public offering. We recognize that dividends are important to stockholders and have responded accordingly. We would like to point out that of the twelve mutual holding companies that completed IPO's during 2006, only two have declared dividends so far. Less than half of the forty-seven mutual holding companies which completed IPO's during the past three years have paid any dividends; and the average amount of the initial dividend was $0.05 per share.

Mr. Stilwell has criticized the Company's management and Board of Directors without cause. We believe Roma is on the right path and every single one of our directors and senior officers is committed to enhancing shareholder value. We are proud of our accomplishments and that Roma Bank is recognized as an outstanding community bank, one that is focused on its customers, employees, community and its new constituency of shareholders. With your anticipated support and encouragement we will concentrate on continuing to add value and prestige to our Company.

Please return your WHITE proxy card and let us get back to business.

Very truly yours,

/s/ Peter A. Inverso
