Check out our progress on new Jetnet and learn about Finnair, who will join our transatlantic joint business later this summer.

Video Project Helps American Win with Small Business

American Airlines took home the CEB's 2013 Small Business Marketer of the Year award for its Flights.Camera.Action. video contest. Launched in 2012, the contest encouraged small business owners to submit one-minute videos that express how travel enables them to make connections that impact the future of their businesses. In addition to great creative execution, the American campaign was recognized for addressing two key pain points among small business owners: promoting their own businesses and networking with others. Specifically, the contest allowed many small businesses to reach potential customers through the campaign promotion and to earn Business ExtrAA reward points that would allow them to travel to make new connections for their business. In total, American gave away the equivalent of more than 350 roundtrip domestic Economy Class tickets, as well as hundreds of Admirals Club One-Day passes for companies that entered the contest. Additionally, the winner (a nonprofit business called Convoy of Hope) received the equivalent of 80 domestic roundtrip Economy Class tickets, as well as a full-page ad in American Way, banners on AA.com, an Admirals Club display and an inflight TV testimonial. The third annual Flights.Camera.Action. video contest will kick off in the third quarter of 2013.

Virgin America's Loss Narrows as Carrier Restructures Debt

Virgin America narrowed its first-quarter net loss by 39 percent and restructured debt to lower interest expenses. The carrier also modified terms with some creditors, which eliminated $290 million of debt and will trim interest expense in the second half of the year by two-thirds, to $20 million. Virgin America is trying to achieve profitability in the second half of this year and won't add to its fleet of 53 jets until 2015 as it pauses growth. The carrier's loss was $46.4 million for the first three months of the year, compared with $76 million in the same period a year ago.

U.S. Cancels Plan To Close Airport ATC Towers

The Federal Aviation Administration on Friday cancelled budget-driven plans to close 149 air traffic control towers at smaller U.S. airports, two weeks after Congress passed legislation to end air traffic controller furloughs that had delayed flights. U.S. Transportation Secretary Ray LaHood said federal officials determined the legislation gave the FAA enough flexibility to keep funding the towers, which had been scheduled to be closed in June to save money. The White House announced plans for both the furloughs and the tower closures earlier this year to meet automatic spending cuts required by Congress under the so-called sequestration law aimed at reducing the U.S. budget deficit. Congress sprang into action after the rolling FAA furloughs caused delays at major airports across the United States.
