On May 22, 2018, Convergent Media Systems Corporation (the “Borrower”), a wholly-owned subsidiary of Ballantyne Strong, Inc. (the “Company”), entered into a Master Installment Payment Agreement (the “Financing Agreement”) with NEC Financial Services, LLC (the “Lender”).

The Financing Agreement provides for financing in connection with the purchase by the Borrower of media players and related equipment (the “Equipment”), in an aggregate amount of up to approximately $4.4 million. The financing provided by the Financing Agreement for the purchase of the Equipment is secured by the Equipment and all accessories, attachments and accessions and replacements thereof and all proceeds thereof.

Payments under the Financing Agreement are fixed at interest rates based on the three-year U.S. Treasury Note yield plus a spread at the time of funding. The obligations under the Financing Agreement are guaranteed by the Company.

The Financing Agreement provides for customary events of default with corresponding grace periods, including: (i) failure to pay principal, interest or fees under the Financing Agreement when due and payable; (ii) failure to comply with other covenants and agreements contained in the Financing Agreement; (iii) the making of false or inaccurate representations and warranties; (iv) loss, theft, substantial damage or destruction of the Equipment; (v) certain defaults under other debt or obligations; (vi) money judgments; (vii) a change in control or ceasing to operate business in the ordinary course; and (viii) certain events of bankruptcy or insolvency. Upon the occurrence of an event of default, the Lender may declare the entire unpaid balance immediately due and payable and/or exercise any and all remedial and other rights under the Financing Agreement.
