Philadelphia, PA - February 6, 2002...Comcast Corporation today reported results for the year and three months ended December 31, 2001. For the year ended December 31, 2001, the Company reported consolidated revenues of $9.674 billion, a 17.7% increase from the $8.219 billion reported in 2000. Consolidated operating cash flow increased 9.4% to $2.702 billion from the $2.470 billion reported in 2000.

Edgar Filing: AT&T CORP - Form 425

Brian L. Roberts, president of Comcast Corporation said, "We are delighted with the results we are reporting for 2001, as we delivered on the operating and financial goals for each of our businesses while focusing on long term value creation."

"The cable division successfully integrated nearly two million new cable subscribers during 2001, completed the rebuild of our cable systems, and delivered growth in new services and accelerating operating cash flow growth. This excellent performance supports our confidence in the strength and opportunities for growth in this business. As we look forward to completing our merger with AT&T Broadband, we believe our strong track record of operating performance, great combination of distribution and content assets and strong balance sheet will help support accelerated growth rates and provide a whole new range of opportunities."

Cable Division Results

Cable division results for the quarter and the year ended December 31, 2001 are presented on a pro forma basis. Pro forma results assume that all cable systems acquisitions and exchanges were effective on January 1, 2000. Pro forma cable division results include the Lenfest acquisition completed in January 2000, the Prime acquisition completed in August 2000, the cable systems exchanges with AT&T Corp. and Adelphia Communications Corp. completed in December 2000 and January 2001, respectively, and the acquisitions from AT&T of 585,000 and 112,000 cable subscribers in April 2001 and June 2001, respectively.

Pro forma cable division revenues for the year ended December 31, 2001 were $5.289 billion, representing a 9.2% increase from the $4.843 billion for 2000. Pro forma operating cash flow for the year was $2.112 billion, compared to the $2.009 billion for 2000, reflecting the inclusion in the fourth quarter of $140 million of incremental expenses incurred in the transition of Comcast high-speed Internet customers from Excite@Home to Comcast's network. Excluding the impact of the high-speed Internet transition, pro forma operating cash flow increased 12.1% to $2.251 billion, reflecting the ongoing business of the cable division.

For the fourth quarter, pro forma cable revenues were $1.375 billion, an increase of 9.1% from the $1.260 billion for 2000. Pro forma operating cash flow for the quarter was $443.8 million, compared to the $520.8 million for the same period of 2000. Excluding the impact of the high-speed Internet transition mentioned above, pro forma operating cash flow for the quarter increased 12.0% to $583.3 million.

Cable subscribers grew to 8.471 million, a pro forma twelve-month trailing growth rate of 1%. Continuing strong demand for Comcast Digital Cable contributed to a 6.0% increase in pro forma video revenues in the fourth quarter. High-speed Internet service revenues more than doubled from the fourth quarter of 2000. These new services contributed nearly two thirds of the revenue growth in the fourth quarter, helping to offset decreases in pay-per-view and advertising revenues. Excluding the impact of the high-speed Internet transition in the fourth quarter, cash flow margins improved to 42.4% from 41.3% as a result of the successful integration and improved operating performance of recently acquired cable properties.

As previously announced, the cable division added 213,800 Digital Cable subscriptions in the fourth quarter, a weekly average of over 16,400 net additions. Comcast Cable finished the year with 2.336 million Digital Cable units, representing a 54% pro forma increase over 2000 and a subscription penetration rate of nearly 28%. Comcast Digital Cable is now available to nearly 99% of Comcast's cable subscribers.

During the quarter, the cable division added 155,400 high-speed Internet customers, a 33% increase over the third quarter and a weekly average of nearly 12,000 net additions. Comcast Cable finished the year with 948,100 high-speed Internet customers, a 98% pro forma increase over 2000, representing a penetration rate of 9% of marketable homes. In 2001, Comcast expanded availability of high-speed Internet service by more than 3.6 million homes on a pro forma basis. At year-end, 10.4 million homes, or close to 75% of the homes in Comcast's footprint were marketed this service.

The rebuild of the Company's cable systems is substantially complete. At December 31, 2001, 95% of Comcast's cable systems had capacity of at least 550MHz (80 analog channels). During the year, Comcast made significant progress in upgrading recently acquired cable systems. At December 31, 2001, 100% of Prime systems, 100% of Lenfest, 83% of Adelphia and 88% of AT&T systems acquired in 2000 and 2001 had been upgraded.

Mr. Roberts said, "We continued to demonstrate the power of upgraded systems in delivering digital and broadband services to consumers. Building on this platform, we are continuing to expand the reach of our high-speed Internet, digital and video-on-demand services. We now have more than three million video-on-demand (VOD)-ready homes. We plan to nearly double the number of VOD-ready homes and to make the new Comcast high-speed Internet service available to nearly 11.5 million homes by year-end 2002."

"We have substantially completed the transition of high-speed Internet customers to our new network. We are building a more robust network to deliver an even better service to our customers, including remote e-mail, multiple e-mail addresses, web storage and enhanced high-speed options."

Commerce: QVC

QVC's consolidated revenues for the year ended December 31, 2001 were $3.917 billion, representing a 10.8% increase from the $3.536 billion reported in 2000. Consolidated operating cash flow in 2001 was $722.3 million, an increase of 16.6% over the $619.2 million reported in 2000. Excluding the results of QVC-Japan, consolidated operating cash flow increased 19.0% to $741.3 million.

For the fourth quarter of 2001, QVC's consolidated revenues were $1.262 billion, representing a 12.3% increase from the $1.124 billion reported for the same period in 2000. Operating cash flow for the fourth quarter was $236.1 million, an increase of 17.4% from the $201.2 million reported in the fourth quarter of 2000. Excluding the results of QVC-Japan, consolidated operating cash flow increased 18.2% to $240.3 million.

Mr. Roberts said, "After 15 years in business, QVC continues to deliver stellar performance. In the fourth quarter, QVC recorded the highest sales day in the company's history, with over $80 million in sales in one day. The domestic business continued to drive QVC's performance with over 18% growth in operating cash flow and higher operating margins. QVC is also making significant investments in Germany and Japan to tap exciting new opportunities in those markets. QVC-Japan had a strong launch year in 2001 and QVC-Germany reached near break-even in the fourth quarter of 2001 and is expected to contribute to consolidated operating cash flow in 2002."

Content

Edgar Filing: AT&T CORP - Form 425

Comcast's Content businesses include E! Networks, Comcast-Spectacor, The Golf Channel, and Outdoor Life Network. Results are presented on a pro forma basis, assuming that the consolidation of The Golf Channel, effective June 2001, and the acquisition of Outdoor Life Network, effective in October 2001, occurred on January 1, 2000.

Solid growth in carriage continued to drive the results of E! Networks and The Golf Channel in 2001, contributing to double-digit increases in full year revenue and operating cash flow for both cable networks. As a whole, Comcast's content business segment reported pro forma revenue and operating cash flow growth of 17.4% and 45.2%, respectively, for the full year of 2001. In the fourth quarter, revenue and operating cash flow grew 8.6% and 9.7% respectively, as increased affiliate revenues and cost controls helped to offset the impact of a soft advertising environment.

Consolidated Results

The Company's consolidated results include all acquisitions as of the dates of their closing. For the quarter and the year ended December 31, 2001, the Company's consolidated results include the Lenfest acquisition as of January 2000, the Prime acquisition as of August 2000, the cable systems exchanges with AT&T Corp. and Adelphia Communications Corp. as of December 2000 and January 2001, respectively, the acquisition from AT&T of 585,000 and 112,000 cable subscribers in April 2001 and June 2001, respectively, the acquisition of Home Team Sports in February 2001, the consolidation of The Golf Channel in June 2001, and the acquisition of Outdoor Life Network in October 2001. Pro forma results assume that all acquisitions and exchanges were effective on January 1, 2000.

Fourth quarter 2001 operating cash flow includes $140 million of incremental expenses incurred in the transition of Comcast high-speed Internet customers from Excite@Home to Comcast's network. New Accounting Statement

A new accounting statement that addresses how intangible assets, including goodwill, should be accounted for in financial statements upon and subsequent to their acquisition was issued in June 2001 (FAS 142). Upon adoption, the Company will no longer amortize goodwill and other indefinite lived intangible assets, which consist primarily of cable franchise operating rights. The Company adopted FAS 142 on January 1, 2002. Adoption will result in increased income as a result of reduced amortization expense.

Based on the Company's preliminary evaluation, the estimated effect of adoption of the statement would have been to decrease amortization expense by approximately $540 million and $2 billion, for the quarter and the year ended December 31, 2001, respectively.
