ITEM 5. OTHER EVENTS

Credit facility for Letters of Credit

On May 28, 2003, Lucent Technologies Inc. ("Lucent" or the "company") entered into two agreements with various banks for the issuance of letters of credit. The first agreement, the Letter of Credit Issuance and Reimbursement Agreement ("L/C Agreement") among the company, several banks and JPMorgan Chase Bank, as administrative agent, provides for the issuance of up to $245 million of new letters of credit for the account of Lucent and its subsidiaries until December 31, 2004. The company is required to provide cash collateral for 20% of the total exposure for letters of credit issued under the L/C Agreement. If any letters of credit are still outstanding under the L/C Agreement on December 31, 2004, the company will be required to provide cash collateral for 100% of the exposure. Lucent can increase the L/C Agreement to $500 million by obtaining additional commitments. The availability of commitments under the L/C Agreement is subject to customary closing conditions.

The second agreement, the External Sharing Debt Agreement ("ESD Agreement") among the company, several banks and JPMorgan Chase Bank, as administrative agent, provides for the renewal of up to approximately $350 million of existing letters of credit issued for the account of Lucent and its subsidiaries until December 31, 2004. If any letters of credit are still outstanding on December 31, 2004, the company will be required to provide cash collateral for 20% of the exposure under the letters of credit then outstanding under the ESD Agreement.

Under the L/C Agreement and the ESD Agreement, Lucent is required to meet specified levels of quarterly operating income (adjusted for certain items) and maintain a minimum balance of unrestricted cash and short-term investments of not less than $2 billion, of which at least $1.1 billion must be maintained in accounts in the U.S. If Lucent fails to meet these requirements at any time, Lucent will be required to provide cash collateral to secure 100% of the exposure for the letters of credit outstanding under the L/C Agreement. If Lucent fails to meet these financial requirements on or after December 31, 2004, Lucent will be required to provide cash collateral to secure 100% of the exposure under the letters of credit outstanding under the ESD Agreement. Under both agreements, if an event of default occurs, the company will be required to provide cash collateral for all of the exposure.

Lucent also amended the Guarantee and Collateral Agreement and the Collateral Sharing Agreement the company and certain of its subsidiaries have in favor of JPMorgan Chase Bank, as collateral agent. Under these agreements, specified U.S. subsidiaries of the company have guaranteed certain obligations of the company, and the company and these subsidiaries have pledged substantially all of their assets to secure the obligations. These agreements secure Lucent's obligations under the L/C Agreement and the ESD Agreement. In addition, these agreements secure obligations of Lucent and its subsidiaries for specified hedging arrangements, guarantees to lenders for vendor financing, lines of credit for Lucent subsidiaries, the agreement relating to a special purpose trust established for selling vendor financings, and cash management and other bank operating arrangements. As of March 31, 2003, the total amount of these other obligations was $410 million.

The above description is a summary and is not a complete description of all of the terms and conditions of these agreements. Copies of these agreements are filed as exhibits to this Form 8-K.
